Answer to Question 13

The William R. Sandman Revocable Trust (“Trust”) proposes to sell a portion of its shares of DTC Holding Co. (“DTC”) to Chandler Sandman after which the Trust will hold 49.999% of the voting shares of DTC. In addition transfers of non-voting stock by gift will reduce the Trust’s percentage of total equity in DTC to below 50%. Following these transfers no entity or individual will own more than 50% of either voting stock or total equity, although the Trust will continue to own the largest percentages. In addition, William R. Sandman, sole trustee of the Trust, will retain his position as President of DTC and its subsidiaries. DTC is the sole owner of Diode Cable Company which is, in turn, the parent of Diode Telecom, Inc.
